

21. The Lee

5 miles

This lovely walk five mile walk starts at The Old Swan, Swan Bottom, near Great Missenden, and takes in woods, tracks and open countryside. It is pretty flat with only a coup le of stiles.

Start with your back to the pub, turn right and very soon right again on to Swan Lane, a road often with grass down the middle. As it dwindles to a track you enter woodland.

On the same path you emerge briefly into a field, but keep the wood on your left and soon go back under the trees.

About 250m after this, turn right in the woods, then on the same path pass between fields.

Going back into woodland, after less than 100m the path forks; you should go to the right, and a bit later follow the path as it bends right. At the next crossing of paths, turn right again, still in woodland.

Just as you reach the edge of this wood, turn left at a junction of paths, emerging to walk between two fields and then meet up with a road.

Turn left on this road, keeping left to face oncoming traffic, and then right down Arrewig Lane. Just before the farm, look for a public footpath stick sign to your left and cross the stile to take you behind the buildings and across to more woodland.

You skirt this wood, arriving at a made up road where you turn right, then very soon right again onto another path rounding the same area of woodland.

Keep to this path to meander through trees and then between two fields, arriving within sight of Dundridge Manor Farm. Turn right onto a concrete drive behind this farm, and right again to head South West. Ignore turnings off this track to right and left.

Cross another wooded area on the same path, turning right once in the trees. After about 200m, just inside the trees, turn left at a junction of paths.

Cross a large field on this narrow path, emerging back on Arrewig Lane at a public footpath sign. Turn right here, then soon left, onto another signed public footpath this time between two fields.

On the same path, cross the heel of another field, cross a small strip of woodland, and passing gardens and a tennis court turn right to meet up with Swan Lane and your starting point.
